

FESSH-ON(line)-WEEK 16-19 June 2021 | virtual

MANAGEMENT OF COMPLICATIONS IN COMMON HAND AND WRIST SURGERY

Due to the uncertainties caused by the pandemic, the annual FESSH congress will be organised online on the original date of 16-19 June 2021.

We had hoped that our announcement now would have been an invitation to a live congress in Rotterdam but reality is unfortunately different. The program includes many sessions of a normal live program including, for example, the 10 best papers session from the Journal of Hand Surgery European volume, instructional courses and the EWAS session. As the theme of the meeting is complications in hand surgery, we will add an exciting session entitled "Disasters from the Masters". In addition, we will present live surgery sessions on many hand surgery topics in a superb Cadlab and will debate difficult problems. A newly created concept will challenge different FESSH countries to produce presentations in a so-called "Nations Competition". We are looking forward to welcoming you all to the FESSH Online Week in June. It will be a fantastic program that will only get better with your input as participants.

THE FESSH ONLINE WORKSHOPS A FESSH Academy project

22-24 April 2021 | Virtual

FESSH
Federation of European Societies for Surgery of the Hand

As the main face-to-face FESSH Academy event has now been moved to October, we are inviting you to join us for three online FESSH workshops, to run over three consecutive days on Thursday and Friday evenings and on Saturday morning on April 22-24.

The sessions will consist of lively and informative panel discussions of interesting and controversial cases. There will be an opportunity to ask questions during each session. There is no registration fee for the event but sign-up is required.

Session topics will be

- 1) Hand Fractures and Trauma,
- 2) Congenital Problems of the Hand,
- 3) Adult Pathology

Event will be accredited by EACCME.
